COURSE OVERVIEW

Introduction to Transportation Planning provides an overview of the field of urban transportation planning. Transportation planning is more than just creating an efficient system for moving goods and people. Transportation planners deal with a variety of issues facing cities, such as traffic congestion, economic development, air quality, and social equity. For decades, road and highway planning has dominated transportation planning. Today, a new paradigm has emerged. Planners are challenged with creating sustainable transport systems — cities that have a balanced, multimodal approach focused on creating opportunities for walking, bicycling, and public transit. This course discusses how cities can become more sustainable – economically, environmentally, and socially – through creating balanced transportation systems.

GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

The goal for this course is to introduce students to the importance of transportation in shaping cities, as well as our lives. Objectives include providing a historical context of modern transportation planning; learning about the importance of walking, bicycling, and public transit; understanding the link between equity and transportation, land use and transportation and public health and transportation; understanding parking policies; and learning the basics of transit-oriented development. The course will also examine issues facing New Orleans as well as creating sustainable transport systems in cities across the United States and internationally. After completing this course, students should be able to:

- Identify, analyze and compare various modes of urban transportation
- Identify the difference between an automobile dependent versus sustainable transport system
- Describe how a city can encourage walking, bicycling, and public transit
- Understand the link between equity and transportation
- Describe the linkages between transportation and land use, public health, parking, and transit-oriented development
• Understand the transportation decision-making process in the United States
• Compare, contrast, and evaluate different transportation planning proposals to determine the travel behavior, economic, environmental, and social impacts

Upon completing this course, students should obtain the following skills as Student Learning Outcomes:

• Applying discipline knowledge
• Critical thinking by using analytical skills to solve problems
• Information skills to have the confidence to investigate new ideas
• Written and oral communication skills
• Technology skills
• Learning how to learn in group settings
• International perspective
• Professional skills

STUDENT HONESTY POLICY

All students are expected to understand and abide by the Academic Honesty Policies as promulgated by the University of New Orleans (see: http://www.uno.edu/student-affairs-enrollment-management/documents/academic-dishonesty-policy-rev2014.pdf).

If a student is uncertain about an issue of academic honesty, they should consult me before submitting an assignment. Once an assignment has been submitted, the student acknowledges their compliance with university policies. Violations of academic honesty include but are not limited to, cheating, fabrication, falsification, multiple submission, plagiarism, and collusion.

ASSISTANCE FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

It is University policy to provide, on a flexible and individualized basis, reasonable accommodations to students who have disabilities that may affect their ability to participate in course activities or to meet course requirements. Students with disabilities are encouraged to contact me and/or the Office of Disability Services to discuss their individual needs for accommodations.

COURSE TEXTS AND READINGS

There are four required books for this course:

These books should be available at the University Book Store but you may also purchase them elsewhere. In addition to these texts, there are copies of required readings posted on Moodle and links to readings on the Internet via this syllabus (see reading schedule below). Students are responsible for accessing and downloading these materials.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND GRADING

Class Participation

All students are required to attend and participate in all class meetings and online forums.

Short Paper

In the short-paper, you must select a major city in the world and describe the history of transportation and the role for various modes within that city. Please be sure to summarize at least 5 different types of major transportation modes within that city using a table.

You must draw from the readings in your paper. If you quote directly from any readings, make sure to cite your work properly using MLA style. You must provide a bibliography at the end of your paper for cited work, even for required course readings. Your short paper should be no longer than 5 pages.

Book Review

You must complete a 3 – 5 page book review of:

Midterm Paper

Students are required submit a midterm paper. Additional details will be provided during the course.

Case Study – Oral Presentation with Powerpoint

Students will be required to conduct a case study and give an oral presentation to the class. Additional details will be provided during the course.

Group Project

Students will be required to work on a group project during the in-person meeting of the course. More details will be given during the course.
Term Paper

Students are required to submit a term paper. Additional details will be provided during the course.

Late Work

Any work turned in late will receive an automatic 10% deduction as well as a 2% deduction for each day that the work is late (not including the 1st day). For example, if the assignment is 4 days late, the penalty will be 10% + 2% + 2% + 2% = 16% deduction. In this example, the highest score that a student could receive for the assignment is an 84%.

Withdrawal Policy – Undergraduate only

Students are responsible for initiating action to resign from the University (withdraw from all courses) or from a course on or before dates indicated in the current Important Dates calendar. Students who fail to resign by the published final date for such action will be retained on the class rolls even though they may be absent for the remainder of the semester and be graded as if they were in attendance. Failure to attend classes does not constitute a resignation. Check the dates on the Registrar's website, http://www.registrar.uno.edu. Please consult The Bulletin for charges associated with dropping and adding courses.

Incomplete Policy – Undergraduate only

The grade of I means incomplete and is given for work of passing quality but which, because of circumstances beyond the student’s control, is not complete. The issuance of the grade of I is at the discretion of the faculty member teaching the course. For all graduate and undergraduate students, a grade of I becomes a grade of F if it is not converted before the deadline for adding courses for credit (as printed in the Important Dates Calendar) of the next regular semester including summer semester.

Repeat Policy

When a student is permitted to repeat a course for credit, the last grade earned shall be the one which determines course acceptability for degree credit. A student who has earned a C or better in a course may not repeat that course unless, (1) the catalog description indicates that the course may be repeated for credit, or (2) the student’s Dean gives prior approval for documented extenuating circumstances.
