Course Description
Welcome to HIST6001! This course serves as the gateway to MA-level graduate studies in history at UNO. In this course, we will survey and analyze historical writing and thought. Part of the two-semester sequence, this course is followed in the spring by HIST6002, which stresses historical methodology and research. Together, these two courses should launch students on a path toward most effectively approaching and analyzing the secondary and primary sources that will underpin their research and wider work in the program and beyond. In this course, we will blend theoretical and practical topics. Part of the course will be spent honing library research skills, exposing students to second-year students and their projects, and discussing topics in professional development.

In this course, students will:
- Be introduced to the History Department and graduate program
- Examine the development of the professional practice of history within Western academe
- Developed and enhance their understanding of changing historiographical debates and the wider nature of historical argument.
- Develop familiarity with the historiographical discourse in their field of interest
- Learn to write clear and well-organized historiographical papers

Course Requirements:

Class Participation
As a significant amount of our class time will be spent discussing the readings, I expect you to attend all classes and participate in class discussions. All reading assignments must be completed by the day under which they appear. Please arrive on time for class. If you must leave early, please let me know at the beginning of class. This course is based on discussion, and so you will be expected to share your thoughts, but courteous behavior and responses are expected, even when you do not agree with what is said or discussed in the classroom. Civility in the classroom and respect for the opinions of others is very important in an academic environment. As part of class participation, you should meet with me during week 12. I will pass out a sign up sheet for those meetings when it comes closer to the date.

Lead Discussion
You will be required to lead one of our discussions either alone or with one of your classmates. Please sign up for the date of your discussion during our first meeting. As part of the discussion preparation, discussion leaders have to meet with me a few days in advance of the discussion.

Response Papers
Most weeks you will be required to submit a 300-500 word (maximum!) response paper (6 in total). This should be a brief discussion of the readings in which you highlight important arguments, theories, and/or methods. Also identify how the different readings relate to each other and the topic of the week. As part of the response paper, you should list three questions for discussion. These Response Papers are due on Moodle at noon on the day of class. If the paper is submitted after noon but before class, it will lose 1/3 of a letter grade. I do not accept Response Papers that are submitted after the class of its due date.

Short Historiographical Papers
In addition to the short response papers, you will be expected to write three brief historiographical papers of 5-6 pages each. These short papers should link the main reading for that class with other historical writing, thus discussing a specific historiographical debate. Make sure to include at least three outside texts in this discussion. Submit these papers on Moodle before class starts and bring a hard copy to class. You will be able to sign up for these papers the first week of classes. You should not submit a response paper on the day that you have a historiographical paper due.

Final Historiographical Paper
Your final historiographical paper should be a 10-12 page long review of at least 6 secondary sources that pertain to your field of interest or thesis topic. The final historiographical paper should provide a coherent and relevant historiographical review of the scholarship on your topic of choice.

Grade Breakdown
Reading Responses 30% (300-500 words each)
Final Historiographical Paper 20% (10-12 pages)
Short Historiographical Papers 30% (10% each)
Leading of Discussion 5%
Class Participation and Attendance 15%

90-100 = A
80-89 = B
70-79 = C
60-69 = D
< 60 = F
Students with Disabilities
It is University policy to provide, on a flexible and individualized basis, reasonable accommodations to students who have disabilities that may affect their ability to participate in course activities or to meet course requirements. Students with disabilities should contact the Office of Disability Services as well as their instructors to discuss their individual needs for accommodations. For more information, please go to http://www.ods.uno.edu.

Academic Dishonesty
Academic integrity is fundamental to the process of learning and evaluating academic performance. Academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Academic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to, cheating, plagiarism, tampering with academic records and examinations, falsifying identity, and being an accessory to acts of academic dishonesty. In short, plagiarism is using others’ ideas and words without clearly acknowledging the source of that information. In order to ensure that you are not plagiarizing anybody else’s work, make sure to footnote each source you use and make sure you cite the original author of any idea, phrase, or paraphrase that you include in any written work. If you do plagiarize, I will have to report this to student affairs. For more information, see the UNO Judicial Code online at http://www.studentaffairs.uno.edu.
